MEXICO TO BUILD MAIN STREET SIDEWALK

From Bridge to Bridge 3,000 Feet Long.

Special Town Meeting A Hot One as Usual.

At the special town meeting in Mexico, Saturday afternoon, O. P. Smith was unanimously elected moderator. In assuming the chair, Mr. Smith admonished all present to keep the peace and attend strictly to business. He promised every one the privilege of being heard, and urged that all matters to come before the meeting to be fully thrashed out before they were voted upon.

Notwithstanding this excellent warning the contrary course was pursued, and the greater part of the discussion was had after the votes had been declared. The meeting was called to order promptly at 2 p. m. and dragged along for three hours, and then adjourned without being able to vote any money for a building to house the town property.

The sum of $1,500 was raised to buy land and erect for the fire department, and a like sum was voted to build a sidewalk from Swift River bridge to the toll bridge.

$109 was voted for the high school use.

Action by Articles.
The second article was to see if the town would vote to raise a sum of money to buy horse and real.

Bert Goodwin called for a statement from Mr. F. A. Perkins as to the amount required. Mr. Perkins estimated $1,500. That would supply 500 feet of horse each for three miles, and incidentally, E. P. Goodwin said it was folly to go to that expense unless the insurance rates would be lower. He asked for information.

Mr. Perkins replied that when the underwriters inspected the water works and pronounced them adequate the rates would be lowered.

Bert Goodwin informed the meeting that the hydrants were located so that with 500 feet of horse any house within the fire district could be reached in case of fire.

Leon Small asked for cost of the present fire apparatus.

Mr. Howard, the selectman, gave the figures as $937.

Mr. Small then asked if the $1,500 was necessary in addition. Mr. Perkins thought it was.

Randall Taylor threw a fire brand in the midst, at this point, by asking what guarantee the town had for the water supply, and whether or no, the underwriters would accept, and grant lower rates.

Bert Goodwin declared that the supply would be sufficient to put out any fire.

Mr. Taylor said that was "not a sufficient guarantee."

ROBERT CHAPMAN RELEASED ON BAIL.

Wife Tells Story of His Past Career.

Says He Has Been Honorable In Every Way.

There is a general tendency to make every little thing that is in the least out of the common appear to a man's disadvantage when he has been detected in doing something wrong. So it has happened that not only have things of no particular moment been picked up and magnified, but wholly untrue stories have been circulated concerning the past career of Robert Chapman of Rumford, the account of whose misfortune appeared in the last week's CITIZEN.

As soon as his people could be communicated with and proper legal papers filed, Mr. Chapman was liberated, and will be at liberty until the trial of his case in October. As soon as word was received by his wife of the trouble that he was in, she, accompanied by her father, came to Rumford from their home in St. Johns, N. B.

The CITIZEN editor called upon them at their hotel and had a long talk with Mrs. Chapman who is not only heart broken because of the trouble, but is suffering because of the many false reports that are in circulation concerning her husband, whom she loves with a splendid devotion, and in whom she has faith, although not attempting to deny the facts of the immediate trouble.

In denial of the reports that Mr. Chapman had been into similar difficulties in Maryland, Mrs. Chapman said, between sobs, "Bob was three years in the Baltimore Medical College altogether, and there was not a week that I did not get a letter from him, and most of the time two or three in a week. He worked for a dairy company and attended college

ABUSED HIS HORSE.

In the Municipal court Monday at Rumford, Judge Stearns heard pleas of guilty from two men charged with intoxication, and after they had settled their debts, an East Portland farmer pleaded guilty to being drunk.

Merle Burgess of the Center was the first witness for the County. He said in substance "Mr. Dragoo drove into the Center village Saturday about half past twelve in the afternoon. His horses were wringing wet and he was driving very fast. He was also drunk, and the animals were being abused. Have seen him drunk before and know how he acts when intoxicated. I did not know that I had the right as a citizen to take the team from him. If I had I would have done so. I telephoned Deputy Sheriff Elliott.

Gus W. Kimball was next called. Testified much the same as Burgess did. Said additionally "Dragoo drove late my stable and began using vile language to me, and I ordered him out. Heard the team drive into the village and thought a runaway was in progress. Dragoo finally drove off towards home which is about two miles from the Center."

Attorney McCarthy tried to make the witnesses admit that they were not good judges of abused horses or of drunken men, but the witnesses were not to be swayed from the facts as presented. Deputy Sheriff Elliott and Fear also testified that they arrested the respondent at his home about 1:30 p. m. He was then drunk.

The Judge in imposing sentence said he was obliged to take into consideration the fact that this was not only a sagacious case of abuse of horses and violent resistance of the officers, but that it was the second offense of a like nature.

He then pronounced sentence of 60 days in Paris jail. Lawyer McCarthy appealed and the respondent furnished bonds in the sum of $100. Edwin D. Thompson went bail for him.

It rained nearly all through June. It rained in July with fresh power. And every wet day somebody would say, "That's the sleeping-up shower."

BEER CLUB METHODS OF DOING BUSINESS

Explained to The Court At Rumford.

The Disclosure Avails Not and Club Pays $100.

An interesting liquor seizure case came before Judge Stearns at Rumford Monday morning. For the first time in this court the modes operandi of the beer clubs was made public through the means of the testimony of the officers and members.

Saturday night officers Elliott and Fear raided the club conducted by certain Lithuanians over Hall's livery stable. They seized bottles of beer and ale. Some of it in lockers and some in a refrigerator on ice.

The officers testified that some men there who claimed to be members, but had no locker keys; and others said they paid 25 cents for three bottles of beer. The officers said there had been no disturbance about the club room that they knew of.

The president of the club, a good appearing man, of his nationality testified, through Miss Cassie Lockwick, an interpreter, that there were 92 members, and as a requisite to membership each one must be a member of St. Rocco's Benefit Society.

Each man has a locker, and pays 50 cents per month into the club treasury, and then buys as many coupons as he wishes, and is entitled to a bottle of beer for every coupon. These he deposits with the man in charge. There is no profit accruing to the club or any individual. The members take turns, by the week, of looking after the affairs of the club.

They pay $7.50 for 120 bottles of beer; express charges make the total cost $8.75. When all sold out the club has received $10.00. They use on an average, 800 bottles a week.

In spite of these facts, and a plea by Attorney McCarthy, Judge Stearns adjudged the president guilty, and fined him $100 and costs. Paid.

DIXFIELD DOWNS THE LAFAYETTE OF RUMFORD.

Last Saturday the Lafayette base ball team of Rumford was vanquished by the Dixfield fellows in a ball game that was hotly contested, and developed many exciting incidents.

The final score stood 11 to 13 in favor of the Dixfield's. The Lafayette's played rather wild to begin with and the visiting team put it all over them in the first inning, making seven of their total score in that turn at the bat.

It was lucky for them that they did for the Lafayette's got on to their job immediately after, and kept the visitors worried all the rest of the game. Batting picked for the home team, and as soon as he found out that he had a swift opposition he got in his due work and came near retrieving the disaster of the first inning.

The Dixfield pitcher was a very good man, and to his work the team owed its escape from defeat. Many from Dixfield were present and a good stand and well satisfied crowd witnessed the game.

SPENT A YEAR IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Mr. Lawrence Peterson has just returned to Rumford from a year's stay in San Francisco. He says earthquakes there are of monthly occurrence, and do not occasion any comment, and very seldom are newspaper items.

The full facts regarding the great disaster of two years ago were never published.

Mr. Peterson returned via Salt Lake City, which he says is the best built city in the country.

JULY FROST.

Quite a heavy frost came considerable damage to the late crops in Rumford and Bethel last Thursday night. Some crops were totally destroyed, while others were very much injured.

The Turning of the Worm.

"Did you hear anything of a report that the government is going to prohibit the wearing of 'Merry Widow' hats at Panama?"

"What has the government to do with the question of mere fashion?"

"It has't been decided. The new dress there must have come from one of the tailors in Boston."

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Declares For Resubmission.

Obadiah Gardner Unanimously Nominated for Governor.

The Democratic State convention to nominate candidates for Governor, State Auditor and six electors of President and Vice President of the United States was called to order at 1:43 p. m., Wednesday, July 15th by Dr. Edgar L. Jones of Waterville, chairman of the State committee.

After the reading of the call by Secretary Dennis E. Bowman of Waterville, Mr. Jones introduced George M. Hanson of Calais as temporary chairman. He was received with loud applause.

Mr. Hanson had progressed but a few lines in his talk when he mentioned the name of Bryan. This set the convention into a storm of cheering which lasted a full minute. Three cheers were given for the Presidential nominee.

Great enthusiasm was aroused by Mr. Hanson throughout his address. The chairman, secretary and Rev. George S. Robinson of Old Town were the only ones on the platform, during the early part of the convention. The delegations were well filled, there being about 800 present.

Mr. Hanson concluded at 2:15. Rev. Mr. Robinson offered prayer.

The State committee was made a committee on credentials and reported 962 delegates present of the 1,100 entitled to seats.

The temporary organization was made permanent.

Spice was added to the convention during the election of candidates for Presidential electors, by an objection from Peter C. Keegan of Van Buren to the election of John S. Williams of Guilford, whose name had been presented. He nominated Hiram J. Hathaway of Houlton. He said he had been told the place of elector, from the 4th district and had been said to Mr. Williams weeks ago and added:

"This may be alright in a Republican convention, where they sell out United States senatorships years in advance, but it cannot be done in this convention."

LIKELY TO HAPPEN MOST ANY DAY.

Forged checks are an every day occurrence at the Rumford National Bank. Besides the one reported last week in the name of "John H. Pibody" there have come to hand three $10.00 checks bearing the forged signature of John Wikont.

Mr. Wikont feels that he knows the party who has used his name and says he is a bad man, although a fellow countryman, and a smart and good appearing fellow.

Mr. Wikont says the man has a bad reputation for swindling women in matrimonial alliances, and while in this country only a year and a half, has twice been arrested for falsely marrying or otherwise deceiving women. He served six months in jail for some misdemeanor of that kind.

From all that Mr. Wikont reveals of the man it should be within the police power of the country to locate him and bring those forgeries to an end, if he is the guilty party.

WELL DONE MR. MELOHER.

Selectman Meloher did a very good job one day last week in Rumford. He was in his store at Virginia when he was asked to see what looked like an automobile go by as though it had wings and a license to break all the speed laws in Maine.

He immediately sent word to the village to have the man identified or held. Mr. Meloher came down to the Judge's office and had a warrant made out for the man's arrest. He proved to be a stranger, and gave the name of Hogan, claimed to live in Dover, N. H. Recorder Stevenson fined the man $25.

The CITIZEN man asked the Recorder if Hogan paid cheerfully. "Well he paid," replied Mr. Stevenson, and there played about the Recorder's mouth that peculiar smile that carries with it the impression that there is a doubt whether the weather will be wet or dry.

Let no man be afraid to enter complaint against automobilists who disregard the safety of the public by speeding on our highways. They pay and give while doing it, but in most cases they are blinding, for no man is anxious to yield up $25 for the questionable fun of bragging to his friends that he was "held up for speeding."

NEW DENTIST.

Dr. D. M. Small is practicing dentistry at a graduate of the Dental School, New York, and has been in Rumford and has succeeded in making a very fine set of dentures for a patient in Bethel. He is now in Rumford and will be in Bethel on Monday and Tuesday of next week.

FIELD DAY.

W. C. T. U. Entertained at Riverside Cottage, Bethel.

Tuesday afternoon, July 14, the Bethel W. C. T. U. was the guest of the Misses Shirley at Riverside Cottage, the summer home of Mrs. F. T. Russell and daughter. The meeting was opened by the President in usual form and at the close of a short business session the ladies went to the summer house to enjoy the beautiful scenery. Those who climbed to Sunset Lodge were well repaid, for from this point the Androscoggin river can be seen as it winds through the valley; the mountain range in the distance rises in grandeur and just at the left lies our own little village which we dwellers here learn to love so well. Even the most pessimist can imagine how easily the sweet singer, Lucy Larcum could recite the inspiration here to write some of her sweetest poems. As we descended the hillside we discovered we had not left all the beauty and grandeur behind, for there upon the hill bottom had arranged the picnic supper in the most charming style. Mrs. Russell assisted by her daughter, Shirley, served with the hospitality and good cheer which has made them noted as royal entertainers.

The brightest days will close with the setting sun and it was the happy company that this happiest day of the summer was near its close, but each one will hold in pleasant remembrance nature's wonderful pictures and desire still the generous hospitality of those who so kindly and graciously entertained.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS AUG 1.

The Democratic town committee of Rumford have decided to call a caucus August 1st, at three o'clock in the forenoon, to meet in the municipal court room. The purpose of the caucus is to nominate a candidate for representative to the legislature, and to say what business that may come before the meeting. A Democratic club is to be formed at a meeting to be held following the caucus.

THE KELLOGG LECTURE

Two Delightful Surprises Added To The Pleasure of The Evening.

A very appreciative audience greeted Mr. Charles D. Kellogg Thursday evening in Orlon Hall. For a year and a half Mr. Kellogg has been trying to find an evening to give a lecture in Bethel and although he has many engagements now, he gave Thursday evening to his friends here.

A delightful surprise was in store for the audience for Mr. Kellogg announced that Mrs. Kellogg and Mr. Brown would sing by request. Mr. Brown sang two selections playing his own accompaniments. These were well rendered and merited the hearty applause which they received.

Mr. Brown has a very pleasing voice and the shading and expression which he gives his selections shows the perfect control which he has over his voice.

Mrs. Kellogg also sang two selections, Mr. Brown acting as accompanist. It was very evident from the greeting which was given her that she was not a stranger to a Bethel audience. Mrs. Kellogg has a rich voice of large range and pure tone which only those who have the word can do. Her sweet and womanly presence was the admiration of all before whom she appeared, and her selections were thoroughly enjoyed.

Mr. Kellogg opened his talk by telling how he sang bird songs and followed this by a song accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Kellogg. He said that there was a king of sadness about his lecture that evening, for his faithful dog, Don who had been with him in all his study and travel for many years had passed away a few days before and it was the first lecture he had given since his loss.

His talk was not given at birds but also of four footed beasts, insects, reptiles, etc. Mr. Kellogg photographed all his own subjects and has one of the very early moving picture cameras in the world. The illustrations were fine and he showed some moving pictures just received of Des. also of bird life and butterflies. He gave one or more songs of each of the different birds he showed and also gave some very interesting pictures of camp life at North Newry.

The evening was the most interesting, instructive and enjoyable that a Bethel audience has had for some time.

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Pleasant Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers
as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

Editor's Note.—It is our desire to make this department one of the most interesting and valuable features of the whole paper. To this end we ask the assistance of our readers. Choice verse and gems of thought will be gladly received. Here are our thanks for anything that our friends have sent or may send.

A Woman's Wish.
Would I were living in a field of clover,
Of clover cool and soft, and soft and sweet,
With dusky clouds on deep skies hanging over,
And some distance at my head and feet.

Just for one hour to slip the leash of worry
In eager haste from thoughts impatient neck,
And watch it coming in its heedless
hurry,
Dismissing wisdom's call or duty's beck!

Oh, it were sweet where clover-clumps
are meadow,
And daisies hiding, to hide and rest;
No sound except my own heart's steady beating,
Holding itself to sleep within my breast.

Just to lie there, filled with the deeper loneliness
That comes of listening to a wild bird's song!
Our souls require at times this full unsatisfying
All words will rust if scabbard kept too long.

And I am tired, so tired of rigid duty.
So tired of all my hands had to do!
I yearn, I feel, for some of life's free beauty,
Its love bands with no straight string running through.

Aye laugh, if you will, at my crude speech,
But across sometimes die of such a grief,
Die for the small joys held beyond their reach
And the assurance they have all they need!

—Mary Ashby Townsend.

The Little Lost Word.
I lost a very little word the other day;
A very naughty little word I had not meant to say.

If only it were really lost, I should not mind a bit;
I think I should deserve a prize for really losing it.

For if we ever read ever had that little word,
So that no more from my lips could it be ever heard,
I'm sure we all of us would say that it was something fine
With such completeness to have lost that naughty word of mine.

But then it was not really lost when from my lips it flew;
My little brother picked it up and now
he says it too.
Mamma said that the worst word he
I could not get it back;
The worst of it now seems to me, I'm always on its track.

If it were only really lost, O, then I should be glad!
I let it fall so carelessly the day that I got mad.
Lose other things, you never seem to come upon their track;
But lose a naughty little word. It's always coming back.

—Katherine.

Reveries by Reading.
There is probably no better exercise for expanding the lungs, developing the senses and opening up the pores of the skin than reading. Yet in these times it is rare to see a man read, and any one would almost have reason to suspect fire or murder on seeing a woman read. Children who are unaccompanied by father often choose to sit in a room and read instead of going out, and their usual method of locomotion is by running.
They devour books and papers that involve running, and the exercise given them deep breathing power, makes their cheeks rosy and develops the muscles of the neck and throat wonderfully. Many of the home accounts run more than they profit, and some of them have remarkable endurance for the journey. It is said that a deer will run forty-eight hours continuously. I distinctly remember a woman who was heard to speak and weep, and they are up on words incessantly. People bring in the country accounts have abundant opportunities for running. But if the ladies cannot make up their minds to run, they should certainly walk as much as possible, breathing into their lungs the fresh pure air, and continuing the exercise until the skin has a warm, ruddy glow.

Never expect a friend of doing you wrong until the proof of it is as plain and as clear as the sun at noon on a cloudless day, and then—yes, even then do not accuse or censure until you have heard from his own lips his version of the supposed wrong. If you were ever a friend to him he is certainly entitled to that much forbearance and consideration. If this rule was practiced, many a misunderstanding would be averted, and many a heartache spared.

Young women have the same longing to get away from their native towns and live among new scenes and changing surroundings, that boys are possessed of. They feel the weight of local environments, even more than the opposite sex, and one frequently hears the remark, "I wish I were a boy, then I could have some freedom."

This marks a critical period of a young lady's life. She needs, more than ever before, wise and loving counsel, and the sympathetic companionship of a true friend; and there is no friend like the mother in usefulness, unfailing devotion. Girls tell their mothers of year hopes and ambitions, and you are quite certain to receive advice which you can accept with profit, and which will do you good.

So far as possible, let all women dress beautifully; so God dresses the meadows and mountains. Let them wear pearls and diamonds, if they can afford it. God hung around the neck of his world strings of diamonds, and braided the black locks of the storm with the bright ribbons of the rainbow.
Especially before and right after breakfast, ere they expect to be seen at the world, let them look neat and attractive for the family's sake. One of the most hideous sights is a slovenly woman at the breakfast table.

The Rise of a Boy.
This boy goes to his business, and at his business begins by simply doing the things he is told to do, and doing them in the common and ordinary way. If he steps here, he remains all his life long a drudge. But if he begins to see that business has a significance, that his life is not merely sweeping the floor, not merely writing letters, not merely selling goods; if he begins to see the higher life involved in business; if he begins to see that business is a greater instrument of beneficence than that we call benevolence, that trade is clothing thousands of men where charity clothes ten, that agricultural and milling industries are feeding thousands of men where charity feeds ten; if he begins to see how the whole history of the world is faded together, and is God's way of building up humanity and serving humanity—as he gets this larger view, and enters into it, life is enriched and becomes itself the minister whereby love is enlarged and conscience is strengthened, that rebel wherein he is educated out of the lower into the higher.

That Debt.
It is a small one to be sure, and apparently not worth a serious thought.
Why not then pay it? Why he continued to reflect the satisfaction of a debt? Why not take that little thing out of your ledger at once? It will foster if allowed to remain, and come ten times the trouble. Why not remove the conscience of that little debt?
You contracted the debt knowingly and willingly. Did you mean to pay it? Certainly you did. Then why not do it at once? Every day's delay increases, morally, the amount of your obligation. Remember, too, that your little debt, and another man's little debt, and a thousand other men's little debts, make a little fortune for your creditor.

Teach Children Politeness.
Teach children to be polite. Teach them there is nothing but goodness of heart of so much doubtless as a politeness department. They will have the idea after a while that it is smart to be polite and courteous, and take pride
in being little ladies and gentlemen.

Teach them to say "How do you do?"
or "Good morning!" to everybody with a smile. Teach them to be polite. Teach them there is nothing but goodness of heart of so much doubtless as a politeness
department. They will have the idea after a while that it is smart to be polite and courteous, and take pride
in being little ladies and gentlemen.

WHEAT AND TARES.

What good did it ever do you to hurt someone's feelings? Did saying a mean thing ever get you anything and, if it did, were you satisfied and happy with what it got you?

There are two good ways to judge a man—by what he doesn't pay and by what he doesn't say.

A little bit of hope
Makes a rainy day look gay;
A little bit of charity
Makes glad a weary way!

When a man is trying to go to sleep, he can think of more things that he doesn't want to remember than he could conjure up in six full days of earnest mind rummage.

No one is defeated until he gives up.
It takes a wise young man to pick a girl who is going to be nice looking when she is forty-five.

When the sun of joy is hidden,
And the sky is overcast,
Just remember—light is coming,
And the storm won't always last.

Pure and holy thoughts in ourselves, inspire us to do noble deeds. Noble deeds inspire others with pure and noble thoughts.

The man who smiles has half the battle won.
Today isn't in it with tomorrow if tomorrow is pay day.

The greatest right that woman ever had,
A right that ever should be all her own,
Is reigning over one good honest man—
A queen of home upon a mother's throne.

When you are acquainted, never to contradict, whisper, hum, beat a tattoo with the fingers on the furniture, or tell around in lounging attitudes in company, to say "You mean," and "No sir," "What mean?" "If you please," and "Excuse me," if it is necessary to pass before any one, or to leave the table before the rest, and never to do any of the things for which it is necessary to ask to be excused, unless it is absolutely unavoidable;
not to touch things instead of handling them; not to listen to anything not intended for their ears, not to refuse to give the whole to a visitor when half will do. A polite child is the best of companions, but a rude one is a troublesome nuisance, and will find himself learning at 15 or 20 things which should have been taught him when a child.

There is as much truth as poetry in the lines:
"Laugh, and the world laughs with you;
Weep, and you weep alone."

And perhaps it is well. There is inevitable sadness enough in each lot without adopting that of others. Sympathy for real troubles should always be given, along with what help is possible. But there are many persons who, especially in their own families, talk too much of their own life and troubles, although they are always smiling and genial among strangers, and ever ready with a pleasant "thank you," for every service rendered. If they can rise above their dependences in the presence of strangers, with a persistent effort they can stay above them at home, till they may be the end forget a part of them at least, in finding how much better they are liked by those around them. If you would pass successfully through life, wear a bright face and a pleasing manner even though they may sometimes mask a heavy heart.

SEVEN MINERS KILLED.
Seven mine workers were killed and 18 others injured July 18th by a terrible explosion of gas in the Williamstown colliery of the Summit Branch Mining Co. in the lower part of the anthracite coal fields. The mine was undermined and set on fire.

The explosion occurred in No. 1 shaft of the colliery and is believed to have been caused by one of the men striking the ground of his safety lamp after the explosion of a shot which brought down a large body of coal.

NORWAY AND SOUTH PARIS

Better Sidewalks.

The A. W. Walker Co. have been doing a fine piece of work on Pleasant street, in putting in a good concrete.

Walk in front of the residences, of N. D. Bolster and J. H. Jones. They have also completed a piece of the same kind of sidewalk on the north side of the Stone estate, on Gothic street, from the corner of High, connecting with that in front of Mr. G. M. Giles and M. L. Whittle.

On the other side of Gothic street, there is a long piece of this concrete walk, covering most of the distance from High street to the railroad crossing. This was put in by Mr. Walker last year and has stood the test of the hard winter finely.

These walks are smoother and better than brick, and like brick, wear well, but do not get uneven like brick. For good sidewalks Gothic street carries off the palm now.

The Weather.

The long dry spell broke with a gentle soaking rain last Friday afternoon, beginning about 4 p. m. and continuing through the night, laying the dust, washing the dirty grass by the roadside, and reviving vegetation in the gardens, and giving the farmers hope of a crop, where the doom of drought had been holding full sway. The dust was taken out of the air and the next morning one could get a long full breath of invigorating ozone.

Yates.

Mrs. Rhoda Sophia Yates aged 86, passed on to the higher home last Wednesday evening, after a long and painful illness. The funeral was at the home Friday at 2 p. m., attended by her pastor, Rev. J. H. Little, who came from Harpwell on the morning train to attend the service.

Mrs. Yates leaves one brother, nephew and niece, but no other near relatives. Her husband, A. M. Yates died Dec. 30th, last. They were not long separated.

They have been residents of South Paris about 30 years. They were both connected with the Universalist parish and members of the Good Cheer Society. They were both quiet, noble hearted people, kind neighbors and ready to lend a hand to those in distress. They will be greatly missed by all who knew them.

A. O. U. W.

The Lodge of Ancient Order of United Workmen which was instituted a short time ago in the jurisdiction of Norway and South Paris, starts out with a good charter member list, and bids fair to be a successful institution. Its object is fraternal insurance and being the oldest of these organizations, it has through its long experience reached the bedrock of the insurance system, and offers protection to the families of beneficiaries of its members, which is reliable at the lowest possible cost.

It is a matter of pride that the A. O. U. W. can boast that in the history of forty years there has been no default on or embezzlement by a Grand Lodge officer, so that the members may justly entertain a feeling of confidence in the management of its affairs.

If the members of the new lodge are faithful in their attendance upon the meetings, and anxious to explain the value of the order to others they will soon have a large membership, and a flourishing lodge.

Minister's Work Hours.

Rev. Dr. J. H. Martin of Clinton Ave. Reformed Church, Newark, N. J., said in an address, "There is a pressing demand that the morning hours are sacredly set apart by the clergyman for sermon preparation. And so they ought to be, but the telephone toll a different story, so does the door bell."

A procession of people made up of bank agents, insurance agents, secretaries of benevolent boards and philanthropic organizations, indigent people, idle people, people looking for work and people with axes to grind, came to see the minister, and all must be met with a pleasant face.

All of these people feel that they have a claim upon the pastor's time and attention, and they really have, because the pastor feels that the man who wants to see him, is the man he wants to see.

For Good to All.

Margaret Fuller Oswald, wrote "What ever has been permitted by the law of being, must be good, and only in time not good. Well is obstruction. Good is accomplishment."

"I do not myself see how a reflecting soul can endure the passage through life, except by confidence in a power that at last must order all things right and the resolution that it shall not be our fault if we are not happy; that we will resolutely resolve to be happy."

A. Carl Tully of Norway, who has a position on the electric, in Portland has given up his place there on the advice of a physician and returned to Norway. At present he and his wife are staying with her people, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. K. Ripley, at South Paris.

Misses Isabel and Riepah Morton, have gone this week to the camp at Concord Pond, with a party of young people for a week's outing.

E. A. Anderson on Hillside avenue, and S. C. Ordway have a cement walk in front of their residences.

The Fan Tans report a most enjoyable time at their entertainment by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Park at the summer home on the Hebron road.

Market Square has been badly blocked the past week by the digging up of the streets and changing the water pipes. Saturday the last ditch in the square was filled, but a pile of old pipe was left in the middle of the street in front of Wright's and Bolster's stores, over Sunday, an unsightly mess in the day time and for two nights a dangerous mass for horses and pedestrians to tumble over. Another length of old pipe was left, partly obstructing the driveway to the hotel yard and stables, over which the horse driven in the mail team stumbled Saturday night and came near breaking a leg.

NORWAY.
Hatching and Witham have just spread a new coat of white lead over Cyrus Woodman's buildings on Main street.

Three Colored street musicians entertained the people Friday. Their vocal selections were not exactly in the classic grade yet furnished a lot of amusement.

Philip Stevens is at home for a short vacation after working six weeks with Fremonts Pavilion Moving Picture Company as operator. Mr. Stevens expects to continue trouping in the fall.

Frank Moore sang "Sweet Imogene" at the "Bijou" Wednesday and Thursday evenings of last week. Selden C. Foster of Norway, the author and composer assisted. The song immediately made a hit with the crowd in attendance. Copies are now on sale at Cole's.

A. J. Nevins Bottling Works have been driving business this summer. The long run of hot weather has just forced orders rapidly along, keeping the machines working full capacity. Mr. Nevins trade is largely, but not of town customers as well, seem to favor his soda; because of a superior article properly bottled. The "Aze" goods are delivered to dealers at Oxford, Hebron, Waterford, So. Paris, Welchville. Large quantities are distributed East and West on the Grand Trunk.

Win. Kimball of U. of M. is assisting in Frank Kimball's drug store during the summer vacation. Chemistry and Pharmacy being his specialty, we are sure he will make good after graduation in that profession.

Eleven trappers are being worked out at the Fair Grounds. All occupy stalls near the entrance and have professional air. Four in the group are from the Howland Stock Farm.

Craig & Pierce have two cement cottages well under construction on Tucker street. Each house will have two stories, contain six rooms, a bath with hot and cold water fixtures and other modern improvements. The builders claim such material can be assembled at a less cost than lumber. With a building practically indestructible, low cost insurance and repairs reduced to a minimum, an intending purchaser would save money investigating their claims.

Many went to the Fair Grounds Saturday afternoon where the South Paris and Norway Knights of Pythias were holding forth in a spectacular ball game. Both teams though—out of practice and a trifle shy on scientific effort, put up an interesting struggle. When the two lodges came to degree work there isn't much difference, but base ball is another proposition, and Paris have the Norway Knights distanced. Why our Paris brothers put it all over us and didn't seem to be ashamed of their greed either. They worked the three ranks to the limit all in one session, then were looking around for more work to conquer after the ninth inning. With the result 19 to 4 in Hamlin Lodge of South Paris favor, even Damos of Pythias of old could not have been in harder circumstances than we poor Penacensemen.

Rehearsals are in progress for "Ole Rick's Mistress." Twenty five people and Stora Theatre Orchestra will be seen in the first part. Six end men are to produce the comedy and no pains will be spared to make the opening overture a pleasing surprise. The best local vaudeville talent has been secured for the show. Chester (Jack) Orluck is manager, Frank Moore vocal director and W. E. Storaen takes care of the orchestration.

County Attorney C. P. Barnes and family are resorting at the Camanche cottage up the lake. They have selected an ideal spot so cannot fall to rest quietly and enjoy summer life.

Harry Cole and wife of Westbrook, were in town Sunday on a short visit to Fred and Marjorie Cole's.

THE LESS AGE.

By John F. Cowan.

The horseless carriage is surely fine. On its rumbleless, bumpless tires. But smokeless combustion is more in my line.

Woodboxless and pokerless fires. And painless dentistry's been devised. And rubless polish and soap; And headacheless whiskey is advertised.

(But that is a hopeless hope). The wireless telephonsa's almost here; We hope for mosquitoless pools; And other "less" things to our hearts are dear.

But save us from Bibleless schools. I couldn't enjoy the Sabbathless week. They want to import from abroad, Nor the inspirationless Bible they ek.

From colorless notions of God. Whenever it comes to a creedless church Where a crossless gospel is preached, The old ship of Zion will take a lurch. And, rudderless, soon will be beached.

Don't ask me to room in a childless flat. On headless eggs break my fast. With cowless butter for animal fat. And caffeineless coffee at last.

If genderless women and sexless men, and nerveless scholars in schools, An "ballotless" spiritless citizens, And sapless society tools.

Of our everythinglessness are the guin. Let's slowly peg on as of yore; With horses, and poker, and "skeet" era and pain, And MEN who're not "less" men, but more.

Bargains in Babies.

Among the deacons of a Presbyterian church in an Ohio town was a good old gentleman familiarly known as "Uncle Thomas." Although too deaf to hear, he was always in his accustomed seat at church, and his zeal in religious work was untiring. Owing to a shortage of song books in the Sabbath school, some additional ones were ordered by "Uncle Thomas," who apprised the pastor of their arrival, and the latter agreed to announce the fact from the pulpit on Sunday morning.

The pastor made the promised announcement, among the others, concluding with this one: "Parents wishing their children baptized will please present them at the close of the service."

The good deacon jumped to his feet, and, in the loud voice peculiar to the deaf, bawled out, "Those who haven't any can get them at my house for fifty cents apiece!"

An Uncle Thomas and his wife had always been childless, this startling information almost broke up the meeting, and a wave of merriment swept the congregation that threatened to shake the church from its foundation.

THE BRINK IS NEAR.

Few Portland People Know How Near It Is.

Every time you neglect backache, Allow the kidneys to become clogged, Fail to cure urinary disorders, You get nearer the brink of Bright's disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills will save you from danger. Proof of it is Portland testimony.

Mrs. J. E. Chase, of 72 Federal St., Portland, Me., says "In praising and publicly recommending Doan's Kidney Pills I base my strength on my own personal experience and that of other members of our family who have used them. I can also speak for my husband who was assayed by a good deal with lame back caused by a weakness of the kidneys. He was induced at that time to get Doan's Kidney Pills at H. H. Hays' Sons' drug store, and found quick relief through using one box. In every other instance in which we have used them in our family they have brought the same prompt and satisfactory results. Mr. Chase and myself recommend Doan's Kidney Pills at every opportunity."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Blanks—No, I sell them.—New York Weekly.

The Treasury broke to its former level, previous to this the shoe factory pump could hardly get water enough for their sewage system.

The new schoolhouse on Tucker St. is coming rapidly along. Current orders were used for the foundation and appear to expedite the progress, making a neat, smooth wall. This modern building is one story—three feet and should be a pretty safe thing up the town.

The effort to put obstacles in the way of building the bridge that Rumford recently voted for, may have had its origin in disinterestedness—we hope it is so—but the wording of the petition asking for a discontinuance of the highway from a point in Rumford across the Androscoggin, is not quite clear in its reference to the bridge, and some persons might not understand its import. The petition should have been more explicit in phraseology.

Governor Floyd of New Hampshire in a recent interview while stopping at the Poland Spring House well remarked that one of the things most needed by the States of Maine and New Hampshire is better roads. He called attention to the fact that these two States are and indeed are sure to be tourist States, and that we must not lose sight of the fact that the automobile tourist business is of vast importance to us and that if we could see it continue and grow we must be ever improving our public highways. Our readers will know that we have frequently stressed in our columns the one thing to make Maine what nature designed it should be, one of the great tourist States of the Nation. In better highways, and every town in the State should be constantly making improvements in their public highways until we have a system second to none in the country.

ELECTRIC LIGHTED.

Among the many recent appliances to civilization, perhaps the most and service on the Grand Trunk Railway may be noted a system of electric lighting and electric fans recently installed on some of the trains of this division. This is effected by a dynamo run beneath the car by a pulley connected with the axle. A storage battery forms a part of the equipment which maintains the current during the stops at stations. It is said that the storage battery becomes sufficiently charged, during the running of the train, as to carry the lights and fans for at least ten hours. The system is a most excellent one and is only another testimony of the up-to-dateness of the Grand Trunk Railroad.

As the CITIZEN has remarked before, the Grand Trunk is affording the best all around up-to-date equipment and service of any railroad running into New England. This is so emphatically true that the others will have to get to moving and keep moving at a rapid rate for many a moon before they can approach the excellent service afforded by the Grand Trunk.

ADVERTISE THE COUNTY.

During three months of every year millions of persons in this country go on a "vacation." Some for a week only, but most of them for two and many are away for a month. A few are able to make the entire summer a vacation season.

The business of entertaining these persons has become an important one. Maine New Hampshire and Vermont have become the three centers for summer vacation. An amount of money is spent in these three States for pleasure that cannot be reckoned in terms of the millions every year.

A large amount of advertising every year, and in fact have been the chief medium through which Maine's natural beauties have been made known to the world. The town of Eden, in which is located Bar Harbor, appropriated several thousand dollars at the last spring election, to be used for advertising the town.

We believe that their example can well be emulated by many of our Oxford County towns, thereby attracting valuable business to the County every summer, far in excess of what we now get.

TYPES AND RACES OF MEN.

The process by which nations of one type of man have come into existence is not easily traced. Yet it is one of the most notable features of the evolution of the human race.

Within the knowledge of modern history we have seen a partial type created by nothing more than a change of countries and environments.

The evolution of the type known as the Yankee took place within the space of two centuries. This type was only a variation from the English type. If there had been none of the immigration of the last fifty years, and none of the marvelous industrial changes, the variation might have continued to extend its scope until a new race had been evolved.

It has now reached its limit and is becoming lost by the means of intermarriage, and the influence brought by the foreigners, who are now inhabitants of nearly every part of the country.

In all of our large cities there are colonies of people from every nation on the globe, nearly, and gradually they are extending to the country districts, and both by constant associations, and now and then marriages between men and women of different races, are creating a new type of man, that will be differentiated from any of the original types far more than was the Yankee from his ancestor.

This process of changing racial characteristics does not throw much, if any light upon the manner in which the Mongolian, Ethiopian and the Caucasian races originated.

Perhaps that is not so important a question as how we are going to fare, politically and socially in the absorption of these alien peoples.

most sane and one of the strongest Democratic papers in America, says:

"The nation is confronted to a choice between men. The Eagle prefers Mr. Taft and will oppose Mr. Bryan, for reasons which set this paper against the latter in 1896 and 1900, and which are made more emphatic by everything in Bryan or in Bryanism which has since occurred. The reasons have been often set forth before here. Under the stimulus and light of new circumstances they will often be here set forth again, during the coming canvass."

"The New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin (Ind.) says the platform of the Denver Convention is a scatter-brained production worthy of its origin. It touches superficially upon every topic that might be turned to account for catching votes regardless of whether there was anything to be done about it or not. If anything were to be attempted in line with all its vague suggestions with the government would be overwhelmed with impossible tasks."

While deprecating the centralization of power and denouncing large appropriations and the employment of a multitude of persons in the public service, it would make the government vastly more complex and costly than it is now, for it assumes that pretty much everything in business, that extends from state to state should be minutely regulated and supervised by government employees."

The Cleveland Plain Dealer of Cleveland, Ohio, one of the most influential Democratic papers in the country announces that it cannot support Bryan and "Between Taft and Bryan comparisons are futile. The voter must judge the personalities of the two candidates, and the policies for which they stand and must cast his ballot on his conscience dictation."

The Baltimore American, another strong paper says:

"There has been no spontaneous demand for his nomination. For four years he has been working for it, planning for it, asking for it, and he gets no more of his skill as a politician than not because the members of the party really want him. In no single State are the constructive Democrats for him. Go over the list of his advocates and you will find few who can speak for any solid business or industry. His followers are the office seekers, the name makers, the radicals, the clamorers for change, the elements of unrest and irresponsibility. There are doubtless good men among them, thousands of them, but they cannot answer for the substantial interests of the nation. Maryland will do her part. Taft and this year it will be a hard choice."

Mower was nominated by acclamation at 3:57.

Nominations for Governor were required.

Charles F. Johnson of Waterville presented the name of Obadiah Gardner of Rockland. His speech occupied about ten minutes.

Mr. Johnson said in part:

"The candidate whom you will nominate believes that recommitment is still a living issue and that it will continue to be until settled by the voters of this State. Does he believe in recommitment that would open the avenues to the boys of Maine? Let us give the life of total abstinence answer."

"Upon all the questions which will claim the attention of the citizens of this State he will truly and faithfully represent the Democratic party and upon the larger national issues he is in full accord with it because he believes in and trusts the people."

"When you have nominated Obadiah Gardner as your candidate for Governor, you will have nominated not only an honest man of upright life, but also a man who from years of study is thoroughly informed upon the subjects about which the people of Maine are thinking, not only a Democrat but with the true spirit of Democracy, but a candidate who can lead, who can eloquently and forcibly maintain his position before the people of Maine, and when he has been elected Governor of this State, will be found that he will be inclined to do so."

"He also has an organization, but to the people of Maine whose servant only will be. With great pleasure I will lay down the burdens of the whole Maine party and nominate him as your candidate for Governor and move that the nomination be made by acclamation."

At the first mention of Mr. Gardner's name the delegates cheered for two full minutes and the band played "Swing Me Higher, Swifter."

J. H. Montgomery of Camden nominated the nomination of Charles O'Brien of Portland also presented the name of Gardner. His speech occupied about ten minutes.

MEXICO TO BUILD MAIN ST. SIDEWALK.

Mr. Goodwin said "a sufficient supply will be kept up."

In contradiction to Mr. Goodwin's assertion that it was the Water Company's business to see that it was kept up, Mr. Taylor declared that it was the town's business, and he failed to see that the town had any contract specifying the thing.

E. P. Goodwin thought the contract was sufficiently specific. There was no question as to the reliability of the company. "No individual was responsible. The whole board of selectmen were responsible as per vote of the town in making the contract."

Mr. Taylor with some feeling declared that Mr. Goodwin did not know what he was talking about, and recited the circumstance that the town last August voted to make a contract with the Water Company as per report of a committee appointed, and so far as he knew no report had ever been presented to a town meeting, and he had never seen a signed report of the committee.

If Goodwin asked Mr. Taylor if he still said the report was unsigned, Mr. Taylor asserted that he had not seen a signed report.

At this point, Mr. C. P. Eaton moved that the sum of $1,500 be raised by tax for the purposes set forth in the article.

F. A. Furbish made a motion that the town stop appropriating money for the purposes until it was sure the insurance rates would be lower in consequence. This motion was not seconded, and the former motion prevailed.

After the vote was declared, several men walked up and wanted to know several things that should have been ascertained before the vote was taken. Christopher Birt wanted to know what security the town had for the proper expenditure of the money, as it was left to the fire department to spend and no restrictions mentioned. Mr. Birt explained later that he did not doubt the honesty of the men to spend the money, but questioned the method.

It was then asked between Mr. Eaton, Birt, Park, B. Goodwin, Dayen and others, and it was finally agreed that the money would necessarily have to be drawn from the treasurer's fund, and spent with the sanction of the selectmen, as all other moneys are.

When article three came up, Mr. Edwards moved that it be passed over.

This article was so drawn that it passed over there was no way to raise money to build a house to keep the fire truck and road machine in.

The article asked that the vote that had been twice affirmed that $450 be raised to repair town house be rescinded, and the amount applied, with what ever other sum deemed necessary, to building a storage place for the above mentioned property.

Henry W. Park saw the inadequacy of the article and commented thereon. Leon W. Small thought it was the duty of the selectmen to care for the town property.

Mr. Taylor made a speech of some length upon the necessity of going slow in getting into debt, and referred to the remarks of Walden Pettengill, in the recent special town meeting in Rumford along that line, and endorsed what he said. Mr. Taylor asserted that Mexico was the banner high tax town in the County.

Mr. Park desired to know if any estimate had been made as to cost of a sidewalk.

Selectman Howard explained about requirements for housing the various vehicles, but gave no figures.

The question was called for and it was voted to pass over the article.

Under article 4, $100 was raised for the laboratory of the high school.

Article 5 was then taken up. This was relative to building a sidewalk from Burt to bridge.

It was called to the attention of the voters that at the March meeting $500 had been raised for sidewalk.

Christopher Birt then read a report from Engineer Nelson as to the probable cost of the sidewalk. The estimate was for 8,000 feet length; 8 feet width. The estimated cost of the sidewalk was $1,040.50, or 13 cents per square yard. Mr. Birt then delivered a speech telling why the sidewalk was needed. He made his plea for the workers who had to foot it, and told the speech of those who could afford to ride. He concluded by moving that $1,500 be raised for the purpose of building the walk.

Mr. Park wanted the word "north" taken out of the motion. Birt agreed, and the meeting voted to raise the sum of $1,500 for the walk.

Then began the free for all contest of all the matters that had been up and was thrashed over again. Mr. Park wanted a committee appointed to see what was needed for, and the cost of a sidewalk, to house town property. The question of town debt limit was discussed, and Lawrence Foster read the law and then a long discussion was held as to what the law did or did not mean. There was a question and been asked, and an answer reached. Mr. Birt wanted the selectmen instructed to proceed at once to build the sidewalk. "We do not want to wait five years," said Mr. Birt. The selectmen assured Mr. Birt that they would proceed to contract with Mr. E. H. Howard to begin work as soon as he was through with his job in the Rumford streets.

Mr. Taylor again stirred up the dying embers by referring to the vote in the March meeting whereby it was voted to raise $500 to build sidewalks. The wording of the vote was such that it was not clear what was intended. A provision of the vote was that the abutters should pay half. Mr. Taylor thought the intent was $250 was to be paid back to the town by the abutters.

Leon W. Small explained that the voters understood that the abutters were to pay an additional $500. Mr. Dayen so understood. Mr. Eaton said that Dr. Autchins, who made the motion so meant.

Mr. Taylor asked Mr. Small how the abutters were made to pay, adding that none of the abutters had ever had interest enough to come and talk over the matter with the selectmen. He then put his respects to the Board of Trade meeting, which he characterized in some of its proceedings, as equal "to an old woman's gossiping circle."

Mr. Birt then said that a lot of useless talk was being made. He brought out the fact that the selectmen did assess the $500 and he thought that settled the matter.

Mr. Park referred to the debate between Haines and Daniel Webster in which Webster declared that when sailing on unknown and troubled waters it was best to "consult the compass and find out where we are." "That is what we want to do" concluded Mr. Park.

After much discussion it was found out that Messrs. Stanley and Howard of the board of selectmen were in favor of interpreting the vote to mean that the town appropriated $500 for sidewalks, and that the sum would be available to put with the $1,500 just raised. Dr. Birtford then took the floor and reviewed the doings of the meeting, and spoke of the objection his folks would make to having the trees in front of their house mutilated for the benefit of the electric light poles. "The matter of these poles had been introduced by Mr. Taylor who explained why they had not been located."

Under article six it was voted to quit claim the Levene property. Much more talk was indulged in and it was five o'clock when the meeting adjourned.

Y. M. C. A. ATHLETICS BEGIN 1,000-MILE RUN.

As a picnic shot rang from City Hall, New York, July 18th an athlete in running tights, carrying a silver tube containing a message from Mayor McCellan to Mayor Bruce of Chicago, started up Broadway on the first relay of a thousand mile journey to Chicago. Herbert A. Rapp was the runner, and Mayor McCellan's message was as follows:

"To the city of Chicago, city of New York sends greetings by the feet runners of the Young Men's Christian Association. This message is borne on foot without halt from the Atlantic to Lake Michigan, and the thousands of boys who carry it gain no prize except the consciousness of having done their best."

The message is expected to reach Chicago next Tuesday. Two thousand boys selected from 100,000 volunteers will be the carriers. Each runner will carry the message half a mile, when a fresh runner will take it to the next point of relief.

CLAIMS THERE IS A MEDICAL TRUST.

The CITIZEN has received a communication from a party who is interested in health promoting discoveries, and encloses a letter from a doctor in San Antonio, Texas, who claims to have discovered a cure for consumption. The doctor asserts that by his method he has positively cured several cases, and can furnish proof of the cures.

He then sets forth that he has been badly treated by the medical associations, and the efficacy of his method denied, and as he claims without proper investigation. He says many hard things about the profession, and in the bitterness of his heart accuses them of being more interested in the "almighty dollar" than in finding real preventatives for diseases.

He further sets forth that he cannot get a hearing in the public press, because the "Medical Trust" prevents it by some method.

We laid the matter before a reputable physician at Rumford and he said in substance "If a man has anything of the kind he can get it properly considered. He must either be a sore head of a fake." We put up an argument to the doctor against the desirability of vaccination for small pox, and he claimed that vaccination was the greatest life saver that was ever known to medical science. There are many physicians who disagree with him on that matter although the majority agree. Anti vaccinationists claim deaths result from the practice. Those favoring, positively deny the claim. We are not competent to discuss the attitude of the medical fraternity in relation to the consideration of "cures," but we can see no reason why they should deliberately refuse to investigate the claims of any one whose intrinsic worth as a man or a scholar is as apparent as is that of the doctor whose letter we refer to. We have no present means of knowing whether they have done so, more than the word of the doctor himself. It does not seem possible that in so essential a matter as public health—human life—that any body of men could be so blinded by self interest, or so controlled by association agreements, as to neglect any possible discovery for the prevention of disease, saving of life.

From the quality of the men who are regular physicians that come within our limited acquaintance, we are inclined to believe that they are open-minded and fair.

Yet we find that in all other professions and trades that jealousies abound and that the scriptural declaration that there is but "one way" and those who get in by any other method are thieves and robbers is the rule—that guides. It has been the fate of every new thought or invention to encounter the opposition of the crafts effected. The nature of a physician's occupation has a tendency to make a thicker of him, and he generally is a man of natural ability and trained education, whose mind is, or ought to be, on the plain of disinterestedness, and receptive to new things.

As to the medical fraternity having any strings on the press of the country, we say that no set of men in the country have as little claim upon the press as they; and if the press was influenced by the same motives the Texas doctor claims the medical men are—the "almighty dollar"—there would be no reason for withholding facts that would be detrimental to the doctors for they contribute less to the support of newspapers than any class of men in the business world. They even have gone so far as to agree among themselves not to advertise in newspapers, except they change locations, or for a short time when first opening an office.

We cannot understand why the Texas doctor has failed to receive attention from the press or the medical associations if his proposition is not a personal advertising scheme.

Yet we are not so blind that we cannot see that it is possible that he is the victim of prejudice, and would like to hear from some others regarding this and similar matters.

ANOTHER BIG SHOE FACTORY IN AUBURN.

It is announced that before next Christmas another great shoe factory will be added to Auburn's aggregation. Last Thursday, deeds of three lots of land were executed by the Franklin Company to one of the most prosperous and enterprising shoe manufacturing firms in New England—Luna & Sweet Shoe Co., who for several years have occupied two sections of the former Rock Block, which they have outgrown.

Work will begin on the construction of the new factory at once. It is to be 150 feet long by 30 feet deep, with a central and projecting tower in the middle.

SEPTEMBER, 1909.

EXAMPLES OF MEDIEVAL ART.

Fine Stained Glass Windows Recently Received at New York.

The two German windows of stained glass among the recent acquisitions belong in period to the early sixteenth century, at the time when medievalism passes over into renaissance. The color is lighter and paler than that of the preceding century and is secondary in importance to the design. In the examples at the museum are certain tints of yellow that began to be used in the middle of the fifteenth century, as taste changed in favor of lighter rooms. The subjects of the windows are St. John and St. Maximine against a background of tapestry and architecture treated so as to appear on the same plane as the figures. The author of the note on the windows in the Museum Bulletin says that the drawing is undoubtedly the work of a painter—and a very good one—of the Ober-Rhein school, and that as St. Maximine was bishop of Trier, the supposition that the glass is from that source is probably correct. Very fine examples of the same period are those in the nave of Cologne cathedral.—New York Times.

APPLES ONLY ON APPLE TREES.

Small Girl a Humorist, Though Probably Unconscious.

A Washington man, while visiting a friend's place in Virginia, became much interested in his experiments in fruit culture.

One day the visitor was making the rounds of the place, being in charge of the friend's young daughter of ten, who acted as guide.

"This tree seems to be loaded with apples," observed the Washingtonian, indicating a particularly fine specimen.

"Yes, sir," assented the little girl; "father says this is a good year for apples."

"I am glad to hear that," said the visitor. "Are all your trees as full of apples as this one?"

"No, sir," explained the girl, "only the apple trees."—Harper's Weekly.

Making Furniture Like New.

Where there are no like scratches on new furniture they may be easily remedied by using pulverized rottenstone, that can be bought ready for use. Put this on a soft fannel rag and rub into the surface of the seat, back or arms of a chair or on the top of a table. It will not only take off the defects, but bring a polish to the wood.

To remove the rottenstone with a damp piece of chambray carefully wipe the wood, and when all traces of this is gone a bright lustre can be brought to the surface of the wood by rubbing it lightly with a soft piece of cheese-cloth moistened with alcohol.

The latter must be used sparingly on furniture, for it burns the varnish and will ruin the appearance of the rocker or table if enough is put on to scorch the surface.

No Smoke In Volcanoes.

The materials ejected from volcanoes are chiefly vapor or water, lava, clinders, rock fragments and various gases. There is no true smoke emitted and very little perceptible flame. In most cases the light and the so-called "flames" are the glow of the molten lava and its reflection on the clouds of vapor. The passage through which the eruptive matter rises to the surface is called the chimney or vent and the bowl-like enlargement of it, commonly at the summit of the mountain and often of great size, is called the crater. There may be a number of craters on one cone.

Man's Heart Is a Shuttle.

A man's life is laid in the loom of time to a pattern which he does not see, but God does, and his heart is a shuttle. On one side of the loom is sorrow, and on the other is joy; and the shuttle, struck alternately by each, sheds back and forth, carrying the thread which is white or black as the pattern needs. And in the end, when God shall lift up the finished garment, and all its changing hues shall glance out, it will then appear that the deep and dark colors were as needful to beauty as the bright and high colors.—Hoeber.

The "Infanta."

Infanta is the title given in Spain and Portugal to the princess of the royal family, with the exception of the heir apparent, the corresponding title of Infanta being given to princesses. Since the fourteenth century the heir apparent in the throne of Spain has been styled prince of Asturias, and the heir apparent in Portugal, until the separation of Brazil from the mother country, bore the title of prince of Brazil.

The House of Lords.

The higher nobility or peers of England contains five ranks: Duke, marquis, earl, viscount and baron. All persons holding these titles are members of the upper house of parliament, where they sit as lords temporal. The archbishops and bishops of the established church are termed lords spiritual. They are not peers of the realm, but have seats in the upper house.

Looking for the Fifth.

The leading lady passed down the avenue with her speckled bull pup. "That's the star," whispered the sweet singer.

"Star, eh?" laughed the low comedian. "Then I'll call her Jupiter. She has had four spouses."

"Four spouses?"

"Yes, Emerson."

UNCLAIMED BANK DEPOSITS.

What to do with unclaimed bank deposits, or rather whether the State can appropriate such deposits to its own use, is a question for the United States Supreme court to decide, it seems. There is a constant amount of such deposits, especially in savings banks, accounts of long standing in the names of persons unknown, which are carried along from year to year and are constantly growing from the accumulation of interest. In many cases the persons who made the original deposits have died and made no sign and have left no heirs. The law in this State and several others requires the publication of such accounts, and at stated intervals they appear in the papers, long lists of names, with amounts small and large. Often these lists fall under the eyes of the owners, whether the original depositors or the heirs of such, and claim is made. In many cases, however, the account stands year after year, without any claim appearing, and in these cases it is a fair presumption that there is no legal claimant. What then? Whose is the money and should it remain in the custody of the bank forever accumulating interest?

The Massachusetts Legislature has undertaken to answer this question, and its answer is that unclaimed deposits should belong to the public after a certain time, on the presumption that there are no private owners. The new law provides that deposits which have remained unclaimed for more than thirty years without known claimants, shall be turned over to the treasury of the State. There are many thousands of dollars of such funds—in the Boston Provident Institution for Savings there are said to be $120,000,—and the banks are opposed to turning them over, not being satisfied that the law is sound and feeling obliged to guard their own safety and the interests of their depositors. So a test case has been made. The attorney general ordered that those interested, if any, should appear at the probate court and show cause why the deposits should not be turned over to the State. The court formally upheld the constitutionality of the act, but the Provident Institution contested it on the ground that it deprived persons of their property without the process of law and impaired the obligation of contracts and was therefore unconstitutional. Hence the question goes to the United States Supreme court.

But where the persons? If those who once owned the money have disappeared and cannot be found, there would seem to be no deprivation of property. The contract with them was to keep their money safely and return it with interest on demand. But they have failed to disclose themselves for so long that they are presumed to be dead and to have left no heirs, in which case the contract ceases to bind. It is not an easy question to decide, however.—Portland Press.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES.

Much interest is manifested in the Olympic sports in London and July 14, the Stars and Stripes fluttered to the top of the staff tower. The United States and the United Kingdom each won two gold medals.

The Yankees had the hammer thrown to themselves as had been expected and the performance of John D. Flanagan of the Irish-American Athletic club is breaking the Olympic record with the hammer and the almost equally good record made by M. J. McGrath of the New York Athletic club were eye openers to the foreigners.

M. W. Sheppard of the Irish-American Athletic club, however, did more spectacular work and aroused a greater degree of enthusiasm by crossing the tape ahead of his English rival in a ducking dash to the 1,600 meter race. This the Englishman had counted on for Wilson and Hallows, two prophets concerning American better than third place. To add to the satisfaction of the Americans the judges announced that George W. Guldick of the Chicago Athletic association had done the best work in the fancy diving.

July 15th the gold medals went to Great Britain, France and Sweden. Great Britain was a double winner and France and Sweden secured one each. United States had to be satisfied with one silver medal, symbol of the second place in the three mile team race, but American representation in the various events was small.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

For any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.
